In an interview, Eton deputy operating officer Josefino I noted that it has already been years since the firm's delisting PSE rules allows them to seek listing again five years after its delisting.

In the meantime, Lucas said the firm is working to improve its balance sheet, raise profits and bring in more income to make the company more attractive to new investors.

Lucas said relisting at the PSE will give them access to future listings. He added that the firm also was planning to issue bonds in the future since it had not to have a combination of debt and equity funding for growth.

2015 Citi Microentrepreneurs Awards launched

The 2015 Citi Microentrepreneurship Awards (CMA), the annual search for most outstanding microentrepreneurs in the country, officially started this year in a ceremony held recently at the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas.

Since 2002, the CMA has recognized entrepreneurs at the grassroots who have overtaken poverty with support from microfinance institutions as partners in financial inclusion and enterprise development. Through its 12-year run, the CMA has recognized microentrepreneurs from Luzon, Visayas, and Mindanao whose thriving businesses have greatly improved their quality of life and helped the community through employment generation.

"The nominations we receive each year are always awe-inspiring. For instance, it's amazing how last year's national winner started from removing fish heads in a bagoong factory before becoming a manufacturer and exporter of bagoong. This year we expect more submissions of similar stories of entrepreneurial triumph," said MCPI Executive Director Allan Robert Sicat.

The launch signals the start of the nomination process as program partners BSP, Citi Philippines, and the Microfinance Council of the Philippines, Inc. prepare to receive nominees for the various awards categories from microfinance banks, cooperatives, non-government institutions, and microfinance networks. A National Winner and Luzon, Visayas, and Mindanao Awardees will be chosen from among the nominees. Special Awardees for Agri Micro-business, Innovation, and Community Leadership will also be recognized.

by clinching victory at the Nürburgring. Audi only unveiled its GT3 race car ten weeks ago – now the production-based sports car impressed in a tough battle that lasted up to the last hour of the race. In the end, Audi Sport Team WRT with Christopher Mies/Nico Müller/Edward Sandström/Laurens Vanthoor (D/CH/S/B) was 40 seconds faster than the BMW Team Marc VDS.

The battle for victory in the Eifel endurance race has not been as thrilling as this in a long time. During the 24 hours the lead changed 35 times – a record in the event that has been held since 1970. After the race's midpoint, either the number '28' R8 LMS or its fiercest rival was running in front, depending on the pit stop sequence. In the end, the Belgian Audi team prevailed with a concentrated performance of its drivers and solid teamwork. Vincent Vosse's squad and each of the four race drivers celebrated their first victory in this classic event.

"This was a weekend of thrilling racing, as well as an intense and nerve-wracking one," said Romolo Liebchen, Head of Audi Sport customer racing. "Sincere congratulations to our winners who never lost their cool even in the face of some minor irregularities and held up to the pressure. The whole squad of Audi Sport customer racing is happy to see the new R8 LMS instantly delivering on our promise of it being a competitive, attractive and reliable race car our customers can look forward to starting this fall."
